

LET'S TALK

with
Keith Spera

Welcome to a new kind of New Orleans talk show.

Veteran journalist Keith Spera has conducted thousands of interviews with everyone from Jerry Seinfeld to Janet Jackson to Billy Joel. Those interviews inform his award-winning work for The Times-Picayune newspaper and its affiliated website, NOLA.com.

In Let's Talk With Keith Spera, a weekly talk show from WLAE-TV and LAE Productions premiering in summer 2023, he invites viewers to sit in on his conversations. He'll chat with a cross-section of New Orleanians who are influential, interesting or both: musicians, media figures, business and religious leaders, athletes, actors, attorneys, politicians, chefs, etc.

Spera functions as a stand-in for viewers by asking the sorts of always-wanted-to-know questions that might come up during a chance encounter in a bar. His more casual approach – you'll never see him in a coat and tie – is substantive but not stuffy, which allows subjects to relax and open up about themselves, what they do and why. Avoiding the typical questions also avoids the usual sound bites and policy positions.

As a result, viewers see a fresh, more personal side of each interviewee and his or her insights, attributes and anecdotes – who they are as people, not just who they are in public. Let's Talk turns down the temperature on oft-overheated public discourse while having a little fun and providing a new lens through which to view New Orleans and its denizens.

So please join us, and Let's Talk.
